2. Basis of the Charge (set forth a clear and concise statement of the facts constituting the alleged unfair labor practices) Despite the termination of the CBA between the parties and the expiration of any and all time limits concerning demands for arbitration, the Union continues to make demands and elicit the services of arbitrators specifically selected by the Union in order to force the employer to pay monies to those arbitrators unnecessarily. The arbitrators have found grievances untimely but have still required payment of extensive fees for such interpretation. The Union has a history of forcing or compelling members to file grievances against the employer where such employees have indicated that they did not desire to pursue grievances. The Union has filed grievances on behalf of employees who were not employed by the employer and covered under a different collective bargaining agreement.
